MEC provides Mock-Up Tests
in the field of lashing

The Mock-Up Test is an essential element in the supply of new buildings. Herewith various lashing arrangements can be tested and simulated before being installed on the vessel, e.g. lashing lengths, arrangements of lashing plates or lashing eyes.

The test device is adjustable in order to simulate different container sizes and lashing plate arrangements, MEC keeps their quality and safety standards to a maximum according to extended requirements on board of modern container ships.
